

Nütrops — Winning-Ad Census & Modeling Playbook

Full active-library pull · 265 ad-archive entries → 61 distinct concepts · Page ID 484441681425692
Sorted by total impressions & longevity · US · Prepared 2026-07-26 for Fairy Flame

THE ONE-PARAGRAPH READ

Nütrops runs a Dynamic Creative Optimization account: they lock a small number of proven headline/hook lines (led by "How to get your focus back, naturally") and pour a constantly-refreshed portfolio of cheap executions against them, refreshing footage every 3–7 days for 7+ straight weeks. The copy is the asset, not the footage. Their volume is heavily concentrated on one avatar — the burned-out, cognitively-foggy 40s mom (~55–60% of all creative) — and they run a dedicated advertorial landing page per avatar/angle (21 distinct landers). This document ranks every avatar, sorts their proven winners by funnel stage (TOF/MOF/BOF), calls out the static-image winners specifically, and hands you a ready-to-build 6-ad test set for the tired-mom avatar — 4 video + 2 static — mapped to Pain / Outcome / Product / Social / Lifestyle / Offer, with the full copy, headline, description and landing slug for each.

1 · How the account actually operates

THE DCO LOCKED-HOOK ENGINE

264 of 265 entries run as DCO (Dynamic Creative Optimization). Meta auto-serves whichever execution performs best per user — so the durable signal is the copy line that stays locked across dozens of refreshed videos, not any single video. Their #1 locked pair — headline "Nütrops: Powerful Mushroom Formula" + primary "How to get your focus back, naturally" — appears in 56 archive entries across 14+ refresh batches, unbroken 2026-06-04 → 07-16.

LONGEVITY = THE WIN SIGNAL

No spend/reach is public, so a live account launched 2026-06-04 keeps only what works. Anything still running at 45–52 days is proven; anything at 1 instance & <20 days is their live test queue. We rank on that.

REFRESH CADENCE

New creative batches drop every 3–7 days against the same locked hooks — a treadmill of disposable UGC, influencer whitelisting, doctor-reply clips, repurposed organic, and near-free silent montages.

ONE LANDER PER AVATAR/ANGLE (THEIR TELL)

21 distinct landing pages — the slug reveals the exact avatar each ad targets before you even watch it:

Lander slug	Ads	Avatar / angle it serves
/first-order	291	Generic PDP / catch-all offer
/focus	28	Core brain-fog mom

/stimulants	25	Caffeine-crash quitter
/beauty	25	Appearance-anxiety woman
/alcohol	25	Wine/"not hungover" fog
/luteal	23	Cycle / hormonal woman
/hair-loss	23	Stress-shedding appearance
/burn-out	22	Perimenopause / burnout
/cortisol-stress	22	Stress-belly / cortisol
/gut-health	21	Bloat / digestion
/beer-belly	19	Weight-loss energy-seeker
/weight-loss-journey	14	Weight-loss energy-seeker
/working-moms	4	Identity: "one thing for you"

2 · Avatar breakdown — ranked by investment

Ranked by creative volume + earliest & longest spend. The mom is the monster; everything else is a spoke off the same cortisol/brain-fog hub, entered through a different symptom.

#	Avatar	Share of vol.	Entry symptom & landers
1	Burned-out 40s mom cognitive-load	~55–60%	Brain fog, 3pm crash, forgetting mid-sentence, "running on empty," "feel like myself." /focus /stimulants /working-moms /first-order
2	Perimenopause / hormonal woman 45-55	~12%	Hormone-fueled fog, mood swings, energy crashes, digestion. Names the life-stage directly. /burn-out /luteal
3	Appearance-anxiety woman cortisol made visible	~12%	Hair shedding, stubborn belly, bloat — enters through a visible symptom, not a cognitive one. /hair-loss /beauty /cortisol-stress /gut-health
4	Weight-loss / fitness energy-seeker	~8%	Gym-going, diet-conscious, gender-open. "Exhaustion, not hunger, was the hard part." Cordyceps-for-energy. /beer-belly /weight-loss-journey
5	"Invest in your brain" longevity avatar	~6%	401(k)/compound-interest framing, "0.2% shrink/yr after 35," 6-hour-boost-vs-20-year-protection. Education/TOF. /neural-network
6	ADHD-adjacent younger cohort emerging test	<3%	"My secret to the 2pm crash," "Great Minds Snack Alike." Youngest, freshest test (2026-07-16). Not yet proven.

Read: avatars 2–4 are the same core woman entered through hormones, mirror-anxiety, or the gym. The mechanism story is identical every time — cortisol/stress → your symptom → six mushrooms support the stress response. That single mechanism is what lets them run one product against a dozen avatars. Fairy Flame can do the exact same fan-out.

3 • The winning templates they repeat

Six formats recur across the proven (45+ day) set. These are the molds — fill them with your own avatar language.

Template	Format	Signature move	Proof
Locked-hook DCO montage	VIDEO	One locked headline ("get your focus back, naturally") over infinitely-swappable footage — incl. a silent, no-VO before/after meme montage that costs nothing to produce.	56 ads · 52d
Problem → Solution static	STATIC	Bold symptom line as the hook ("Forgetting birthdays? Pausing mid-sentence?"), then mechanism, then "Subscribe & save 52%."	50d
Cortisol-made-visible	VIDEO / STATIC	Take an invisible problem (stress) and attach it to a visible one (hair, belly, bloat). Claim stays on "stress response," never the symptom — a compliance hedge worth copying.	39–44d
"Not X, but Y" reframe	VIDEO	Disqualify the obvious fix: "It wasn't more caffeine I needed," "This isn't another focus product," "Skip the mushroom coffee."	49–52d
Authority / testimonial UGC	VIDEO	Real-creator talking head or on-camera doctor reply; numeric superiority anchor ("5x more than the leading mushroom coffee"); ends on unprompted social proof ("my kids noticed").	49d+
Education / stat hook	VIDEO / STATIC	Open on a scary stat ("82% of Americans," "brain loses 85,000 neurons/day," "processing speed drops 30% after 30") → curiosity CTA "Watch this."	52d

4 • Winners sorted by funnel stage

Read by the body copy's intent, not the offer badge (their "Save 52%" headline sits on top of TOF/MOF/BOF alike). TOF educate / agitate • MOF mechanism & differentiate • BOF offer & close.

Stage	What the winners do here	Proven examples (format • days live)
TOF	Stat/curiosity hooks, problem-awareness, no hard offer. Job: cheap reach + agitate the fog.	"82% of Americans affected by brain health" S 52d • "Processing speed declines 30% after 30" V 52d • "Brain loses 85,000 neurons/day" V 46d • "Great Minds Snack Alike" V 16d
MOF	Mechanism, "not-X-but-Y" reframes, comparison, testimonials, cortisol-made-visible. Job: differentiate from coffee/nootropics.	"How to get your focus back, naturally" V 52d • "Still dealing with brain fog? Try this" V 50d • "This isn't another focus product" V 50d • "Are you running on empty?" V 51d • "Skip the mushroom coffee" V 36d • "Stress shuts your hair follicles down" V 39d
BOF	Explicit "Save up to 52% off today," Subscribe & Save, direct symptom→product→CTA. Job: convert the warmed-up.	"Forgetting birthdays? Pausing mid-sentence?" S 50d • "You're not hungover..." S 51d • "You've cut the carbs...belly's still there" S 44d • "Perimenopause might be behind the fog" S 33d

Pattern to steal: their video library skews TOF/MOF (hook & educate) and their static library skews BOF (symptom-named offer). Statics are where they close. That's why your test set below puts the 2 statics on Pain and Offer — the two jobs statics do best for them.

5 • The static-image winners (called out)

95 of 265 entries are static images. The proven statics (44–51 days live) all follow the same mold: a blunt symptom-question hook → one-line mechanism → Subscribe & Save 52%. These three are their longest-running statics.

id 2165728657555035 · 51 days live

Static winner A — "You're not hungover" (the wine-fog close)

Longest-running static aimed at the mom who has a couple glasses at night. Names a shameful-but-relatable moment, reframes it as depletion, sells the fix.

HEADLINE	Save up to 52% off today.
PRIMARY TEXT	You're not hungover. You never really are. But you hit snooze three times, you've been staring at the same email for 20 minutes, and your third coffee still hasn't kicked in. That slow, foggy feeling isn't dramatic enough to call a problem. But it's real. And it shows up every time you have a couple glasses the night before. That's your brain running low on the stuff it needs: focus, energy, mood...

Static winner B — "You've cut the carbs" (stress-belly)

Weight-loss avatar. Disqualifies every willpower fix, blames cortisol, positions Reishi as the mechanism. Note the compliance hedge — claim stays on "stress response," never "fat loss."

HEADLINE	Save up to 52% off today.
PRIMARY TEXT	You've cut the carbs. You've hit the gym. You've skipped the beer. And the belly is still there. When stress keeps cortisol elevated, your body stores fat around the midsection. It's called visceral fat. Reishi is an adaptogenic mushroom that helps support your body's natural response to occasional stress. Nütrops delivers Reishi, plus five other functional mushrooms, at a 10:1 concentration...

Names the life-stage directly and bundles four symptoms (fog, energy, mood, digestion) under one daily pack — the "one thing solves all four" close.

PRIMARY TEXT Perimenopause might be behind the brain fog, energy crashes, mood shifts, and digestion changes. Nütrops combines 6 functional mushrooms and 6g of prebiotic fiber to support all four — in one daily pack. Subscribe & Save 52%

6 · Build-ready test set — the Tired Mom avatar

One creative per angle in your 6-type structure — 4 video + 2 static — each modeled on Nütrops' longest-running proof for that job. Every card carries the full copy so you can rewrite it in Fairy Flame's voice and ship. Statics sit on Pain and Offer (where Nütrops' own statics win); videos carry Outcome, Product, Social proof and Lifestyle/Identity.

All six target the same woman — the burned-out tired mom. Every modeled example below is drawn from Nütrops' own tired-mom-core landers (/focus-pdp /first-order /working-moms /stimulants) — not their hair-loss, beer-belly, or perimenopause sub-avatars. This is one clean adset: one avatar × six angles.

Why it wins → A literal Problem:/Solution: layout — the overwhelmed-mom pain ('to-do list keeps growing, you can't lock in') stated in her exact words, then the mechanism, then the offer. Static so the whole mirror lands before the thumb moves.

Model for Fairy Flame → Swap in our sharper mirror lines from the burned-out-mom avatar: "The mail's piling up in mountains. Snapping at everyone, then feeling guilty. Fog by 10am no matter how you slept." Keep the Problem → Solution → offer shape.

PRIMARY TEXT Quick fixes fade. Daily mushrooms build real brain support. Here's the difference. (Execution: a 40-something woman filming herself at home, phone selfie, holding the pouch: "hot take — brain support isn't supposed to feel instant, it's supposed to build over time. This is my daily brain ritual.")

Why it wins → Same outcome promise as their #1 locked hook ('real brain support, here's the difference') but the execution is dead simple to reproduce: one mom, at home, phone camera, holding the product — no gym, no crew, no set. This is exactly what our avatar/UGC pipeline does best.

Model for Fairy Flame → Point our avatar (or a real 45–55 UGC creator) straight at camera with the outcome line: "I stopped chasing quick fixes — two weeks in, I notice the difference every morning. I feel like myself again." Hold the pouch, film at home. Even cheaper alt: the silent before/after text montage (id 973891248793757, 52d) — zero talent, just b-roll + on-screen text ("Before mushrooms daily → Actually getting things done"), assembled from our b-roll bank.

Why it wins → Product-forward but framed as a benefit, not a feature — the gummy format IS the differentiator vs. bitter powders/coffee. 52 days live, 12 variants. 'Sweet + functional' removes the taste objection up front.

Model for Fairy Flame → Show the Fairy Flame gummy as the easy, no-brew, no-pills ritual: "one small pre-measured gummy — no guessing, no buzz, no crash." Demo the pouch + a hand taking one. Lean on our differentiator: legal, USA-made, lab-report per batch.

Why it wins → Real-person UGC + a numeric superiority anchor + third-party validation ('my kids noticed'). 'Running on empty' / 'feel like myself' is nearly word-for-word our own core phrase — independent proof this converts in-category.

Model for Fairy Flame → This is our Script 02/03 territory almost verbatim — do NOT differentiate away from it. Film a 45–55 woman testimonial: failed-fixes → 'feel like myself again' → unprompted 'my husband/kids noticed.' Add our lab-report trust beat they don't have.

Why it wins → Pure value-articulation: disqualifies the crash-and-burn category, then anchors the deal on potency-per-dollar (10,000mg, 3–5× more than leading brands) before the 52% offer — so the discount reads as 'more product for less,' not just a coupon.

Model for Fairy Flame → Mirror the structure: disqualify coffee/nootropics ('short bursts, hard crashes') → anchor our value (pre-measured microdose, legal, lab-report per batch) → the offer (60-day money-back, USA-made). This is the tired-mom close that stays on 'no crash, no numb' — our push-vs-numb-vs-reset positioning.

Note → Copy the compliance hedge exactly: the claim never touches "regrowth," only "supports the body's response to occasional stress." Model this hedge if we ever test a visible-symptom angle.

WHITE SPACE NÜTROPS HAS NOT CLAIMED (OUR UNGUARDED LANES)

- 3am wake-ups / evening-wine as a nightly ritual — they touch "not hungover" once but never own the sober-ritual lane. Our Script 05 + sober-ritual-seeker avatar have zero competitive pressure here.
- Founder transparency / lab-report per batch — Nütrops has no visible founder and no lab-report angle at all. Pure faceless DTC. Our Script 10 / founder story is a moat they can't quickly copy.
- "My husband noticed" (partner, not kids) — they run "kids noticed" but never the partner-relationship reframe. Script 03 territory is unclaimed.
- Microdose / "doesn't push you like coffee, doesn't numb you like pills" — our positioning is sharper than their generic "no crash." Own the push-vs-numb-vs-reset trichotomy.

DO-NOT-MODEL FLAG

Their fibromyalgia-flare testimonial names a real diagnosed condition on screen — their riskiest asset. Every Fairy Flame parallel stays on observable-behavior language ("fog by 10am," "snapping at the kids"), never a named diagnosis.
